Climatic trend: 2018 brought normal climatic conditions, with temperatures spending enough time below zero for the vines to begin their well-deserved winter rest. The spring was quite rainy, with three times the seasonal average rainfall and high temperatures in April. For the entire month of May and June, rainfall remained above average followed by a warm and dry July. Veraison took place between July 23 and 26, August was as hot as it had been the previous year, but slightly wetter. The sugars and acidity developed slowly, while the berries grew to larger dimensions thanks to the high level of water present in the soil. September was warm and dry. Temperatures were higher than the seasonal average, but cooler nights enabled the vines to recover and preserve the aromas and acidity. The red grape harvest began on August 30 with the Merlot and ended the second week of October with the later-ripening varieties.

Harvest period: The harvest started at the end of August and ended at mid October.
